

Sermon: Infinite Love—A Light in the Darkness

Opening Reflection

“Welcome, my dear friends. Today, we come together to explore the profound truth that Infinite Love shines brightest in our darkest hours. It is a love that illuminates our path, warms our hearts, and connects us to something greater than ourselves. Before we begin, let us take a moment to breathe deeply, quiet our minds, and open our hearts to the light of love.”

Let's pause for a moment of silence.

Love as Light

Throughout history, light has been a symbol of hope, guidance, and renewal. Infinite Love is that light—it never fades, never wavers, and is always present, even when we feel lost or alone.

This light of love is within you. It is the spark that gives you strength to face challenges, the glow that warms your soul in times of doubt, and the beacon that guides you back to yourself and the universe.

The Darkness We Face

Life's journey is not without its shadows. Loss, fear, pain, and uncertainty are part of the human experience. But darkness is not the absence of love; it is an invitation to seek it more deeply.

- When we feel lost, Infinite Love reminds us we are never truly alone.
  - When we are overwhelmed, it calls us to pause and find peace in its steady glow.
  - When we feel unworthy, it gently whispers, “You are enough. You are loved.”

A Story of Love's Light

Let me share a story about a young girl and a single candle.

In a small village plagued by a long, harsh winter, the nights were cold and endless. One evening, a little girl lit a single candle in her window, hoping to bring warmth to her home.

The light caught the attention of her neighbors, who came to see its glow. One by one, they brought their own candles to the girl's window, lighting them from her flame. Soon, the entire village was illuminated, and the darkness that once seemed so overpowering was transformed by the collective light of love and community.

This story reminds us that the smallest act of love can light the way for others. In sharing our light, we help illuminate the path for those around us, even as it strengthens our own.
